ACTIVITY –III

DATE : 07.08.2020

TOPIC : Google Meet Awareness Programme

MINUTES:

How to start a video meeting

1. Create a new meeting. To create a new video meeting, log in to your existing Google Account or sign up for free.
2. Invite others to your online meeting. Send a link or meeting code to anyone you want to join the meeting. ...
3. Join a meeting.

ACTIVITY –IV

DATE : 25.08.2020

TOPIC : Google Classroom Awareness Programme

MINUTES:

Join with a class code

1. Go to classroom.google.com & click Sign In.
2. Sign in with your Google Account. ...
3. Make sure to sign in with the correct account. ...
4. At the top, click Join class .
5. Enter the class code from your teacher and click Join.

In the Students section you can view all the students in your class. You can either add students to your class manually, or they can join your class on their own using their own Google account. When you create a class, Google Classroom provides you with a class code located on the left side of the screen. Share that class code with the students you want to join that class. From their computers, laptops, or Chrome books, students log into their Google accounts and use the class code to join.

Within the Student section you can also determine if your students are allowed to comment on the questions, announcements, and assignments you create or if they can only post In the Stream section you'll find the assignments, announcements, and questions that you create. This is the section in which you'll spend most of your time after your classes are set up

Assignments are a great way to collect student work and provide your students with feedback and grades. When you create an assignment you can provide specific instructions for that assignment, a due date, and a topic. If you include a due date for the assignment, students will have until 11:59 PM on the date to submit their work for that assignment. If they submit the work late, Google Classroom still accepts the assignment, but indicates that it was turned in late.

One of the best features of the Google Classroom Assignments is that you can add files to the assignments you create. You can add a file from your computer, a file from Google Drive, a YouTube video, or a link to a Website

Students can submit any type of file to your Classroom, not just Google Docs. Not only can students submit their completed work as files, you can open them directly from Classroom and grade them right there. You can open files submitted to your Classroom as long as your computer has an Internet connection and the software needed to open the file

Conclusion:

Everything in Google classroom make easier for both students and teachers.
